

WILL DEMAND JURY OF WOMEN AT TRIAL OF MRS. ORTHWEIN

Chicago Prosecutor Says Males
Won't Convict Female
Slayers of Men.

CHICAGO, April 20.—Prosecutor Lloyd Heth to-day served notice he would demand a woman jury to try Mrs. Cora Orthwein, beautiful divorcee and affluence slayer.

Mrs. Orthwein, charged with manslaughter in the death of Herbert Zeigler, one of the executives of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, was in court to-day for the date of her trial to be set. She collapsed when led into the courtroom by her attorney, Ben Short, and cried incessantly throughout the proceedings. The case was continued until May 15.

Mrs. Orthwein, who said following Zeigler's death, "I loved Herb, and I killed him," said she shot him in self-defense when he broke into her "gold coast" apartment.

"I will demand a woman jury in this case," Mr. Heth said. "It is impossible to get conviction of affluence slayers by men juries. In the last ten years fourteen women who killed men have been freed. The only two convicted were a woman seventy-two years old and a negro. It would be interesting to see what a woman jury would do."

FINEST BOOZE AT $1 A GALLON, GUARANTEED BY UNCLE SAM, FOR SALE—DON'T PUSH PLEASE!

Million Quarts of Fancy Whiskies Seized on Border by Customs Men Must Be Sold or Destroyed.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Nearly one million quarts of Scotch, Irish and Canadian whiskies, English gins and French brandies—purely certified by the Government—is now being for legal purchasers at $1 a gallon, Chief Ashworth of the United States Customs Service said to-day.

The whiskies are for sale by the customs service, which seized them from border rum runners. Before offering the goods for sale the customs service has it tested and none is offered which is less than 50 proof, which means that it contains about 40 per cent. alcohol. This is fully up to the pre-war liquor standard.

"Custom houses all over the country are overflowing with seized liquors," said Ashworth. "Unless we find purchasers we will have to destroy it. It's accumulating faster than we can store it. The customs officials are embarrassed by the

SLASHERS RUIN OVER 100 LONDON SHOW WINDOWS

Deep Cuts Made in Plate Glass Causes Scotland Yard to Become Active.

LONDON, April 20.—For the past few days London has been suffering from the work of a gang of window slashers. During Monday night more than 100 plate glass windows were disfigured by this wanton form of attack. Deep cuts in the glass were made in each case, either by the use of a plain diamond or a diamond glass cutter.

In some cases cryptic chalk signs left on the pavement had led the authorities to suspect the Sinn Féin. Scotland Yard is actively engaged in following all traces left by what is evidently an organized gang of window slashers, who conduct operations over a very wide area.

HONOR MRS. GIRLING AND HER NEW BABY

Friends Shower Flowers on Hero
Mother and Probably Will Ask Medal.

The rooms of Mrs. Norman Girling's home, near White Plains, were filled with flowers and delicacies to-day in honor of the little sister who has arrived for Norman Jr., the fifteen-year-old son saved from a forty-foot well by his mother last Friday.

Mrs. Girling is doing well. The new baby is blue-eyed, 7 pounds in weight, and the image of the courageous mother who risked her own life and that of this newest daughter to accomplish a feat few strong men would undertake without hesitating. Despite the struggle the young matron underwent getting down the well and then back again—she had to manoeuvre by bracing arms and legs against the narrow cylinder of it—and the ice-cold plunge she had at the bottom, no harm came to her, her doctor said.

There is a strong determination among the people of White Plains and thereabouts to recommend Mrs. Girling for a Carnegie Medal, for they say every condition that goes with the winning of such an award was present when she risked two lives for her tiny son's.

A Remarkable Sale of New Spring Suits
for Women and Misses 32.50

A most extraordinary sale, yet its history is simple. A manufacturer of high-class Suits sold his entire remaining stock of late Spring models at great financial sacrifice to himself, as he was forced to clear his floor space for incoming Summer apparel.

We, in turn, pass on to you the saving we effected.

The assortment is most extensive, including clever versions of the Directoire mode, belted or unbelted, and captivating Box Suits. All are tailored to a degree of perfection, of fine twill Tricotine, in a dark, rich shade of Navy Blue. By the snug fit of the shoulders and sleeves, the "lay" of the collars and the straight, unbroken lines in both back and front, one recognizes the stroke of a specialist in tailoring.

The two models pictured above at the left are women's sizes—those at the right misses'. All sizes for women and misses are included in the assortment, but not, of course, in every style.
